by C. Leon de Aryan

Many people don't understand what I am doing and why.

I am conscious of God being our Father and having built this world with all of us in it to become masters,—co-masters—and co-rulers, co-creators, so as to turn it into a paradise. Therefore I have my ownership share in everything I see. It's my world as much as yours and we are here as God's emissaries and workers to fulfill His plan and execute His orders.

You can see how that simply places me above fear and doubts. I have a definite task, I know my task and I am about my Father's business.

The U. S. A. was founded by Washington, Jefferson and the Founding Fathers to insure us the opportunity to build up the paradise on earth in accordance with our inalienable, God-given rights. Thus the Christian principle of individual responsibility and rights has been made the very keystone of our political government and when I became a citizen, you, the people, made me take an oath that I would defend the Constitution that outlines the fundamental rights and duties in peace and war.

Now all who attempt to pervert our government and misdirect it into channels of autocracy, burocracy, and totalitarianism are up against the Plan of God for the U. S. A. and up against the Declaration of Independence, as well as up against our Constitution and our oath to uphold and follow it in our daily life. I have faced this situation most serenely.

I have really never worried nor was afraid and I still keep on saying what comes to my mind and I call a spade a spade. I am not afraid to state the facts because I have a sworn duty to perform to God and my adopted country, the United States of America.

You, of course, have sworn also to perform the same duties, and, naturally, I look to you for support. You are not supporting C. Leon de Aryan, but are supporting the man who, living up to his oath, insures your rights and freedom also.

In Contempt of Government of the People, By And For the People ! !

When the electorate go to the polls and defeat a man not to their liking, their decision will be respected by those who respect, in any wise, the electors or our system under which elections are conducted. To appoint such persons to high salaried jobs in government is the most effective way of expressing contempt for the voters and the system under which we operate.

FIGHT FOR TRUTH

Dear Sir:— Thanking you for phamphlet from Hamilton Fish. Enclosed is one dollar for your expenses. Here's wishing you the best of luck, and more power in your fight for Truth and right. Yours sincerely ——

G. O. P. vs. Willkie

WASHINGTON— Wendell Willkie will soon be readmitted as a dues-paying and cross-your-heart member of the Republican party. In fact, his colleagues in this city say that he will push the door open himself in order to qualify as a possible standard-bearer next year.

Even though he backed most of the new deal's home plan in 1940, thereby losing many G. O. P. ballots, and although he is even more belligerent than F. D. R., he still has great influence. An anti-Willkie conference of topnotch leaders in Washington foundered not long ago on this simple but important question, "What other Republican nominee for the presidency ever rolled up as many as 22 million votes for our side?"

The Hoosier damaged his chances in the 1940 fight because his position was so nearly that of his rival that there was no great issue between them. Willkie has been far more aggressive than F. D. R. since September, 1939, when Hitler invaded Poland. In his forthcoming statement designed to reinstate himself as an anti-Roosevelt candidate he will lash the administration's alleged misconduct of the war on both the foreign and domestic fronts. In short, he has his political gun primed.

—Ray Tucker.

Mr. Landon's prediction, that our entrance into the struggle would be permanently damaging, has come true. We are burning up our natural resources at a terrific rate to supply ourselves and our Allies. In a short time our greatest iron mine will be down to second grade ore, and instead of having so-called inexhaustible petroleum wells we shall be obliged to get oil from shale.

We shall suffer much, but Europe and Asia will be even worse off as a result of the Armageddon. Only South America will benefit. After every great combat there is a resurgence of nationalism. The advocates of American self-interest, rather than the Wallace visionaries, according to the Landon view, will write our future foreign policy.—Albert N. Leman.

Libel Verdict Held Blow At Press Freedom

CHARLESTON, W. Va.,— Declaring that Freedom of the press certainly would be throttled if newspapers are subjected to libel suits while honestly trying to inform the public on governmental affairs, the Parkersburg Sentinel asked the supreme court to reverse a $15,000 judgment against it.

From the opposite side, the court heard the contention that newspaper "privilege" does not exist and that "editors and publishers have no peculiar rights".

Austin V. Wood, of Wheeling, and James C. McCluer, of Parkersburg, arguing the case for the newspaper, declared that an article published in March, 1941, dealing with a tax department audit of city of Parkersburg finances, was thoroughly privileged for publication under all accepted practices and that there definitely was no malice involved.

W. A. Swearingen, then a member of the Parkersburg city council and running for re-election, filed suit for $50,000 after publication of the story about the audit. A circuit court jury returned a verdict of $15,000 and the Sentinel appealed. Three other suits for $50,000 are pending.

Written or Printed Word Is Right To Record Thought

If newspapers 'have no rights' as above plaintiff's attornies contend, then the individual has no right of freedom of oral expression. Such thought is not only contrary to our own American Constitution and the Bill of Rights, but contrary to the inalienable rights of free men everywhere, which are God-given rights, and need no man or self-appointed 'brothers' keepers' to give us that "privilege" and right. The printed or written word is only a record of the thought of man, instead of being expressed orally. Both are rights, and need not the interpretation or diagnosis of a Philadelphia lawyer or Nudeal bureaucratic 'experts'. —Roy O. Akers.

Lawyer, Client Privacy Sustained by Court

LOS ANGELES— A lawyer has the right to interview a prisoner client in privacy, the district court of appeals here has held.

The court issued a writ directing sheriff's officers to permit Lasher B. Gallagher, attorney, permission to interview, outside the presence of deputies, Doneley Qualls, Negro, charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

WELL, IT LOOKS LIKE 'FREEZE' OUT

If this freezing business don't stop some place we, the people, may find that we were in a game of real freeze out and weren't even seated at the table, let alone being dealt a hand. The Nudeal could have been a little less skeptical that we might also have had a few aces up our sleves, so they wouldn't even take the chance of letting us in so just simply are freezing us out.—Roy O. Akers.

Can "Economics" Supplant Christianity ?

by C. Leon de Aryan

Our good friend and part-time admirer, L. D. Beckwith, editor of the FORUM of Stockton, Cailf., is still at his old tricks of confusing the minds of fhis readers about the work we are doing in THE BROOM. In the April 22 issue of his paper, under the heading "Economic Interpretation of News" Beckwith carried the following:

Courage vs. Understanding

Editor de Aryan, who spent months in San Diego and District of Columbia jails on the absurd charge that he is disloyal and that, since a copy of his paper was read in the City of Washington his offense was committed there and he should be tried there among strangers rather than at home in San Diego, is out on bail awaiting trial and back in San Diego editing The Broom. In his last issue he says:

> I don't feel at home in San Diego. This city dared not get upon its hind legs and free me when I was jailed. You lost your claim upon me as one of you. Now I belong to the nation and the world at large. I shall do my work wherever my presence is required . . . I symbolize the Republic now and am a mere private individual.

When it comes to getting a people out of a jam like the one we are in, a man who knows what is wrong and what to do about it is worth an army of witch-hunters. It is not witch-hunters we need in a crisis like this. There are too many now who want to demonstrate their courage by stirring up more hatred.

Courage in a man who knows what should be done is fine!

In others it is so much more oil on the fires of passion.

de Aryan is still the moralist! He still thinks that courage to defy the tyrants is the open sesame which is to liberate the world.

He has unshakable courage; but so have men who know even less than he does about what's wrong with the world and what to do about it. A man who really knows and knows what he knows is worth an army of de Aryans—even though he be a coward and a knave.

A steam shovel is unshakable, but it is useless unless there is some one in the cab who has the know how; and the man with the know how may be a hopeless cripple and yet, because of his knowledge he can with his feeble hands direct that monster in "moving mountains."

The Forum would detract nothing from the credit due de Aryan for his unshakable courage; but it cannot see that he is building anything with The Broom which will last beyond the echo of the clouds which will one day fall upon his coffin lid.

His own estimate of his usefulness is revealed in this statement, also taken from his announcement that he belongs now to the nation and the world at large:

TOO EARLY

About three weeks ago Frank Walker, Democratic national chairman and Postmaster General, threw the fourth term feeler into the lap of the politicos in Washington and then struck out across the country to feel folk out on the idea.

He learned a great deal by the time he got back to Washington last week. When asked again if he wanted the President to run for the fourth term he replied: "I think it is a mistake to discuss them (candidate) now. It is too early from the standpoint of the country and we should devote all our time to prosecution of the war".

Futrher indication that Mr. Walker learned a great deal on his cross-country tour is revealed in his statement that he would like to see the 1944 campaign "conducted on a very high plane". To that we'd say, "Brother, you ain't seen nuthin' yet".

—Ramona Sentinel.

This paper will continue and my contributions will appear in its pages regardless of where I may be, and that will make it even more valuable as a source of information for I dare speak the truth and as I grow wiser I learn the various ways in which one may speak the truth even confronting the mighty burocrats of this world who take oaths to uphold the constitution merely to take hold of official power to sabotage that very constitution.

Apparently, de Aryan intends to continue capitalizing his forced sojourn among the "mighty burocrats" by becoming a witch-hunting columnist exposing the evil deeds of men in high places.

He seems to have lost what little interest he had in the science of economics.

SOCIALIST vs. INDIVIDUALIST

Friend Beckwith is still the socialist and does not realize that we teach individualism. Of course he will deny being a socialist, but that does not change him. He does not know the difference between socialism and individualism. A socialist is the fellow who believes that what's wrong with the world is that his particular system of saving the world from its ills is not socially applied. An indivdualist is the fellow who realizes that the individual is a free agent and as such alone can win freedom from the world's ills, even though he live in the midst of it, as we do today.

Beckwith imagined that because he is wedded to social methods of saving the world, we too, must be so wedded, or else we become a "witch-hunter". But we hold that the doctrine of the Christ is superior to socialistic schemes of economics. Beckwith cannot get it and so calls us a witch-hunter to ratiocinate himself into a feeling of self-righteousness.

Since time immemorial there have been reformers like Beckwith who demanded that the Church of Christ preach his particular "science" while the Christ teaches a much simpler doctrine: "Seek ye first the Rule of God and its righteousness and All THESE things (even of economics) will naturally follow."

Beckwith cannot get that, so he confines himself to economics. We look upon economics as we do upon physics. The chemical and physical discoveries of natural law with all its progress of mechanical dodads have not improved man's nature.

The 18 Year Olds

NEW YORK— The Doakes kid, Joe jr., was taken into the army the other day. He is 18 years old and a very patriotic American, but of a new and different sort. Young Joe Doakes was born in 1925 and was a little less than 8 years old when President Roosevelt was inaugurated the first time. He has lived all of his conscious ilfe to date under the rule of Mr. Roosevelt and the new deal. In his mind, Mr. Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, Henry Wallace and Harry Hopkins are the fixed government of his country for he has never known any other.

Unconsciously, during these years between babyhood and young manhood, the Doakes kid has been influenced by the events, the methods and the ethics that have swirled around him. He can't remember when it was improper to toss off a solemn promise and break it with a mocking grin, when gangsters were held to be outlaws, when the government was scrupulous to obey the laws and disdained clever tricks upon the people, when high personages were careful not to claim special privileges on a pretense of public service and a citizen could oppose a policy without fea rof personal reprisal

He does remember, because it happened the day after Pearl Harbor, that, after President Roosevelt had taken a public vow not to deliver a lot of coal miners to John L. Lewis, a man named Steelman, acting in the president's name in the role of arbitrator did for him precisely what he had sworn he would not do. Because his government did that and because this is the only government he has ever known, the Doakes kid thinks that was pretty cute and his regard for his own promises is affected accordingly.

Dad's Way Looks Bad

He has a sense that the best citizenship and the best way to get along is to belong to the crowd that is in power for he has seen that racketeers who string with his government can get away with highway robbery and that when congress tries to abolish their immunity, the president slips the word to a couple of his trained senators to kill the bill because it would embarrass the boys.

He noted, in his juvenile way, that Harry Hopkins made a nice piece of change out of magazine stuff which he didn't even have to write himself, at a time when the president was damning war profiteers and, further, that although Hopkins warned the common citizens that they must live a hard life, Harry is living higher and making more money than ever before in his life. And it has not escaped the Doakes kid's attention that anyone who sticks his neck out is likely to be handed an iron cross by the president to signify that he is a traitor or villified by a La Guardia, Ickes or new deal party press or even hounded by the FBI.

The Doakes kid has heard his old man mutter that such a way of doing ain't right and grumble that

'Free Press Should Be Goal of Peace Talks'

NEW YORK— American reporters killed on war assignments since Pearl Harbor were memorialized here by Kent Cooper in a speech in which the general manager of The Associated Press urged the American press to assume militant leadership to obtain international news freedom at teh next peace conference.

In further tribute to the dead heroes of press and radio, guests at the annual luncheon of the non-profit news association, which Cooper addressed, stood in silence while the A. P. wires throughout the land remained idle for half a minute.

Cooper maintained "there can well enough be some newspaper statesmanship exerted in the next peace conference," and continued:

"A free press is but one of the things it should demand. It should also take as its premise the fact that suppression and control of the press by governments constitute a prime cause of wars. This is easy proof."

they didn't do that way before 1933 but the day before 1933 is just olden times to him and he figures that his old man is getting along.

Joker Suspected

The old gent has tried, at times, to explain that right is right, but he hasn't a very good command of language or logic and goes by instinct so he hasn't made much of an impression. Moreover, he is confused, himself, and vaguely suspicious that the government of these last 10 years has purposely kept a lot of lamp shades, tennis balls and Indian clubs in the air at all times so that he couldn't concentrate for long on any one thing.

The kid has never known anything else but the new deal and its moral code and he is just one of a whole generation of Americans, boys and girls, who have been so conditioned as the ideology writers would say.

Like the young generation that Mussolini seized to train in Fascism form childhood these Americans, who naturally look to their government for the highest example, have been getting a course of what the navy calls indoctrination since they first were able to realize that there was such a thing as the government.

That is why the Doakes kid doesn't take very seriously all he hears about the four freedoms everywhere in the world. He figures, what the H—, promise them anything and appoint an arbiter to break the promise, keep yourself in power and take care of your own mob and if one of those small nations puts up a beef, put it on the defensive with your propaganda.

Without conscious reasoning, Joe Doakes jr., reckons to deal with the rest of the world as he has seen his own government deal with the people of the U. S. A. Because that is the code under which he grew up and he knows no other.—Westbrook Pegler in The S. D. Sun-Tribune.

THE SCIENCE OF EUGENICS

"But when he thought of these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared unto him in a dream, saying, Joseph, thou son of David, fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife: for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit." —Matthew, 1:20.

The spectacle which today is unfolding itself before our eyes in political government, of burocracy replacing the natural self-government of intelligent, free men and women, is merely a duplicate of the spectacle of organized racketeers replacing themselves as "interpreters" of the truths of Life, which is Religion.

Religion simply deals with Life in ALL its aspects, from Creation to Destruction, from beginning to end.

The Life of Jesus Christ from his conception to his crucifixion and the bafflement of Easter morning, with his continuing to live for another 42 years, is the lesson that brings Liberty from Poverty, Sin and Sorrow; Amnesty from Ignorance and its resultant follies. Therefore the racketeers eliminated from the Gospels the whole life story of the education of Jesus from his 14th year to 30 and misrepresented by their oral and written commentaries even the remaining chapters of the Gospel.

To understand the Divine Conception of Jesus you must have first been divinely in love with the girl or boy you were to marry and mate. Unless you are entranced by the very prospect of meeting the loved one and touching him, or her, you don't know the ecstacy of Love.

God made us male and female to complement each other. But the complement reaches from the physical thru all realms of existence into the ethereal, astral, mental, soul, spirit and the Ego itself.

Some girls are in a trance, from love-joy, when they put on their bridal veil and walk up the aisle. It's the most momentous experience of their whole life. If now, they also are completely entranced in the adoration of their groom and both are transplanted into the presence of the Creator, then, "that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Spirit", and not conceived in sin. The child becomes a savior of his race, be the child boy or girl.

How simple, how true, how marvelous and natural! An improvement upon the parents, eugenically conceived.

Prayer Brings Results

Dear sir:— I have been too ill to keep up with my correspondence but did write you at Washington shortly before you left there but don't know whether it reached you.

Lost your address when you went down there and wrote weeks later when I found it in The Broom. I entered my 70th year a short time ago and find myself able to get about very little.

Have made your troubles a matter of much prayer, that God may avenge His own and send redness of face and confusion worse confounded upon "They that destroy the earth"—Rev. 11:18.

Well, that has been answered in part, to say the least. May He that watches the sparrow's fall guide and shield you.

HUBERT H. HEATH, Hot Springs, New Mexico.

Welcome, Back, Writes Subscriber

Dear Sir:— During your absence from San Diego I have much admired the loyalty and ability of your friend Roy Akers in his editorship of "The Broom" and his refusal to allow it to be killed by its enemies. I am indeed happy to know that you are again in your home town and able to resume editorship of your paper. I do not know prices of The Brom in bundles but from time to time would like to send for copies to distribute as an antidote to some of the evil propaganda of radio and press.

You and I look somewhat deeper into the causes of war than do very many who seem to consider themselves well-informed, intellectual giants, yet ignore the fundamentals necessary for peace and happiness to become universal. This includes contributers to many of the so-called liberal magazines. LaFollette's "Progressive" magazine founded by "Pompadour Bob" still carries at its Masthead the grand old man's motto—"Know the truth and the truth shall make you free", yet beyond publishing a few exposures of Government and Corporation irregularities fail to publish any vital facts. I have replied to several letters of inquiry in The Progressive "Peoples Forum" but the editors either resent or else are afraid to print the truth as I present it. I note that our local Public Library has discontinued carrying "The Peace Digest" of Van Nuys, Calif.; "Humanity" of Arvada, Colo. has been denied entrance to Canada but still circulates through the mails in U. S. A. To my mind it is one of the best of its kind that I know of. I hope that you exchange with it, the Editor is a powerful and convincing writer yet never bitter. We have been good friends for over a dozen years.

Needless to say I greatly admire your indomitable spirit of courage. Your writings in Broom whilst in S. D. Jail and in Washington, D. C., were splendid, I especially enjoy and derive help from "The Sun Workshop".

With all good wishes, Sincerely yours, E. B. HILL.

Social 'Security Racket'

What to do about the social security benefits—the old age pension money and the survivors' insurance of men and women going into the armed services from private employment—is one that is still kicking around, unsettled. Forty-one of the states and the Territory of Hawaii have made provisions to freeze the status of workers going into the services with respect to their unemployment insurance benefits, but the federal government still pokes along on its part of the social security program.

The way matters stand now, every year that a service person stays in service the old age and survivors' insurance benefits from social security decline, and if the person stays in service for as long as five years, the benefits will be entirely canceled out.

That is a rather severe penalty for anyone doing his patriotic duty to his country. It makes it necessary that when the guy or gal gets out of uniform, he or she will have to start all over again, building up benefits.

COUNTY JAIL CONDITIONS

To the Honorable, The Board of Co. Supervisors, San Diego, California.

Gentlemen:— I wish to call your attention to my experience while I was a federal prisoner last year in your county jail, held for appearance in Washington, D. C. in lieu of $5,000 bail.

I wish to preface my report with the assurance that I have no ill feeling whatever against my jailors, the sheriff and his deputies, that in fact they did many things to show me their good will, since they felt that I was rather a political prisoner than a criminal. But one one hand they did not go far enough in relaxing some of the stupid and cruel rules under which the jail is "disciplining" its hapless inmates, while on the other hand the County Board of Supervisors is ignoring or not acquainted with the needs of the jail if it is not to be conducted as an institution of torture instead of an institution of rehabilitation and correction.

The jail is much too small for the number of prisoners confined, at the time I was there. The crowded condition intensifies the atmosphere of terror by which jailors rule the prisoners. There is no segregation in the "receiving" tank between criminals, drunks and inoffensive individuals who happen to be arrested for trivia.

The "bunks" are hammocks, really, and most men there confined, were unable to sleep, unless they were drunk and in a stupor, because it does not permit the body to stretch itself in a natural position. The mattresses were filthy, full of vermin and I still carry the visible mark of a vermin bite, the size of a nickel coin, which took two months to heal. In the first ten nights I had absolutely no sleep, except fits of short exhausted dozing, so that I was extremely "neurotic" when appearing in federal court and the judge remarked that he could not trust such a "neurotic" person to be at large on his own recognizance. This neurotic condition was induced by your jail. Today everybody remarks how well I recovered, even the federal judge himself said so when he met me recently. This in itself is the strongest indictment of your jail.

I started to sleep after two months when I became "jail wise" and learned how to steal and conceal, with the help of other prisoners, a pillow, two sheets, an extra mattress and then slept on the floor. But at times the guards took away the extra mattress, inspite of the fact that the concrete floor is quite hard.

The mattresses were never cleaned, but "bug juice" was sprayed on them and on blankets, so that a rash appeared on the whole body of every prisoner after a few days in the tank. I had that rash also. I cured it by exposure to the sun when the sheriff placed me in the library where the sun shone brightly in the morning, but other prisoners were suffering from the rash for several months.

The food is absolutely rotten in that it is too starchy, too seasoned and entirely unscientifically combined for dietary purposes. It keeps the inmates constipated and induces sex craziness, whereas it should modify or eliminate the later especially. There was plenty of it and the trustees who ate in the kitchen, cafeteria style, had better variety and combination, so that I could make out to keep myself in good condition when eating with them, but the other inmates are simply out of luck because they do not receive a balancing diet. One would rather call it swill for hogs. The claim that prisons must be conducted on such a style is absolutely idiotic when the Japs are treated royally in their camps.

Yes, we have hardened criminals in our jails, but the majority are petty offenders, and a good many high class citizens also wander in, held for federal burocratic offenses, or for the FBI when they misplaced their draft card. Why are they treated like criminals, worse than Japs?

If you wish to really know what's wrong with your jail I could show you. But don't let anybody know when you are going to enter the jail and inspect it.

In one thing the Department of Justice and myself are agreed: Prison Director of Federal Prisons, James Bennett joins me in the attitude I am taking that our jails in the U. S., are "Barbarous relics of Antiquity", horror institutions" and should be changed into corrective and rehabilitation schools with a discipline that differentiates between incorrigible criminals and victims of wrong circumstances.

Sincerely yours, C. LEON de ARYAN,
P. O. Box 349, East San Diego, California.

'Union Now", American Style

CHICAGO— The Chicago Tribune suggested that England, Canada, Australia and some other countries could join the United States as new states if the nations concerned wanted a "closer association" and took certain steps toward an enlarged union.

The newspaper, published by Col. Robert R. McCormick, set forth in an editorial:

"If the British Commonwealth and the nations of western Europe wish to enjoy closer association with us in foreign policy, defense, trade, currency, patents, and all the other fields of federal jurisdiction, and if for our part we wish similarly to link ourselves to them, the way to accomplish the result is clear.

'ADVANTAGES' CITED

"All they need do is adopt written constitutions and apply for membership and all we need do is accept them as we once accepted Texas."

The article said in part:

"For the people of Britain, particularly, statehood would have many advantages. American manpower, industry and wealth would be instantly and automatically available if British territory were threatened with invasion. Inclusion within our tariff boundaries should prove a stimulant to British industry. Our gold reserve offers another attraction.

"Membership in our union would give the British an opportunity to rid themselves, once and for all, of the incubus of their nobility and the aristocratic system that goes with it.

DROPPINNG KING REQUIRED

"Britain would have to give up its king but as his constitutional powers are said to be merely nominal or, in any event, are not exercised, the change to a republican form of government could be made without difficutly.

"Certainly the hand-kissers and Tories in this country should welcome the closer relationship if only because it would strengthen their representation in congress. They should look forward pleasurabyl to more intimate social and political ties with their English friends, particularly as the new relationship would be that of equals living within the same political system."

Sounds Like McCormick Was Listening In

Mr. McCormick's argument recalls the 'Radio Forum Days' here in San Diego, over KGB, when several San Diegans discussed, over the air, the 'Union Now' subject. At that time I used exactly the same argument, that of statehood for any country that desired 'union' with the United States of America. It is is heartening to be backed up in my argument by such a personage as pubilsher McCormick, and his paper The Chicago Tribune. These 'forums', as many readers will recall, were conducted some two years ago.—Roy O. Akers.

NOT SO CRAZY

"Why are we all here?" philosophized the lecturer at the insane asylum.

"We're all here," one of the audience piped, "because we're not all there."

"22 million votes on our side" gag, they will discover that Willkie will poll so few votes as to be the true grave digger for the Republican party, for which job he was put forward by the Morgan and Lamont interests in the first place, when Banker Lamont bought 1000 tickets to seat his gang in the galleries at Philadelphia where his clique called: "We want Willkie", until by this mob ruse Taft was sidetracked.

The common people from the Republican grass roots want Willkie as much as they want the small pox. They put up with him once and voted for him AGAINST FDR for the third term, so that not Willkie, but the anti-third term sentiment was expressed in the 22 million Republican votes. Willkie has about as much chance with the Republican voters as Abbey had for the mayorality in San Diego, when some of his coworkers were exposed. Willkie and Abbey are political has-beens of a past and mistaken era.

Landon's prediction came true. Taft also appraised the future as it has come to pass since; Willkie is a "me too" politician, he too, like FDR, wants to kill off the Republican party. A vote for Willkie is a vote for the crowd behind the New Deal.

It is being stated already that the New Deal is going to run FDR for the 4th term as a CONSERVATIVE against the labor crowd. Which merely goes to show that both Willkie and FDR were fronting for the same outfit who are chiefly interested to keep the old imperial maxim alive: Divide et impera; that means, keep them confused and divided against each other, then you can rule them.

Westbrook Pegler in a recent article, showed that all the reforms of the New Deal protect the landed aristocracy and never work for the common man; that FDR and Morgenthau are fixed for the rest of their lives and the heavy tax burdens destroy the little fellow. Pegler knows his stuff.
